Governor's Award of Excellence for Workplace Safety and Health Presented Jameson-Gibson of Memphis Receives Award

NASHVILLE – Labor & Workforce Development Deputy Commissioner Bob Henningsen recently announced Jameson-Gibson Construction Company in Memphis was selected to receive the Governor's Award of Excellence for Workplace Safety and Health. Henningsen presented the award at the 26th annual Tennessee Safety and Health Congress and Exposition held at the Opryland Convention Center in Nashville.

"Jameson-Gibson has shown strong dedication to achieving a safe and healthy workplace," said Henningsen. "The award has stringent measures a company must meet. Jameson is to be commended for carrying out the attention to safety required to attain this distinction."

The Governor's Award of Excellence for Workplace Safety and Health is given to Tennessee employers who meet the required number of hours during a calendar year without workplace injuries serious enough to cause an employee to miss a day of work or restrict his normal job activities. The number of hours required is based on the size of the company.

Jameson-Gibson also received the Governor's Award in 2001. The company is involved in commercial and industrial construction, employing 48.
